Concept Note

"The Earth has enough resources for our need but not for our greed"

Mohandas Karamchand Gandhi

Today we live in an age of globalization. At this juncture we made enormous progress in the field of science, technology and industries. But unfortunately the pollution level and scarcity of natural resources reached up to optimal level. Today scarcity of drinkable water is a global problem. Air pollution, noise pollution, chemical pollution etc assumed a massive character. In this context we should understand Gandhian ideas on environment. Gandhi visualized that mechanization will not only led to industrialization, to massive urbanization, unemployment but will also led to the destruction of environment. Gandhi emphasized on production by masses instead of mass production. According to him this will result in the development of an economic system that can minimize environmental degradation and achieve sustainable development. The main object of this seminar is to create an awareness related to environmental issues with a special emphasize on Gandhi's concept.
